

Submitter:

Svein Wiese Hansen

On Behalf Of:

Committee:

House Committee On Judiciary

Measure, Appointment or Topic:

HB3076

Creating a state level certification process for something that is already handled and monitored at the Federal level makes no sense at all. This is a waste of our tax dollars. Gun dealers are already regulated and subject to Federal and State requirements on everything they do. This bill also does not give any indication as to what they study will look for or why it is needed. Is there any factual data that indicates any further study is needed or is this another pointless bill that will waste time and tax money to "fix" something that is not a problem?