I am submitting these comments in support of Oregon Senate Bill 1131. The Chintimini Wildlife Center plays a tremendously important role in providing rehabilitation and critical care for injured wildlife in our community. As a resident of Corvallis, our family has delivered nearly a dozen wounded animals to their care center over the years. They do such a wonderful job with such limited funding and resources. A grant providing essential funding for the improvement of their facilities and the realization of a publicly accessible Nature Center would be of tremendous benefit to both the people and wildlife of the Willamette Valley.
