We do not need to spend more money to "study" yet another unneeded/unwanted issue. Data clearly shows the murders that are on the increase are performed generally by existing criminals and/or by those who stole the guns. Legal gun owners don't kill people, only those who steal the guns and those who are mentally unstable. The mental instability is usually caused by those who are need to stability in their lives, which the current culture is always trying to cause chaos in. Chaos breeds instability in people and unstable people kill others.

We have sufficient rules/laws which our gun dealers abide by and they have no need of more. You might try spending money on more police officers to be able to protect our citizens.
