

Submitter: Jamie Shields

On Behalf Of:

Committee: House Committee On Climate, Energy, and Environment

Measure, Appointment or Topic: HB3932

A beaver dam without any beavers will not clean the water for long. With each heavy rainfall, flows can erode sediments, wash away wood, and find new paths around or through the dam. Beavers work continuously to maintain and repair their dams. Fortunately, there are many coexistence tools that make it easier to accommodate both beavers and their dams.