As someone who works for a licensed FFL that sells over 1500 firearms per year, I know a lot of people in smaller FFL's that this would majorly and negatively impact. These are people, like myself, who are committed to doing their duty in vetting firearm purchasers before they even get to fill out the 4473 form, let alone getting through to the background check phase. Without these smaller FFL's who help so many law-abiding citizens obtain their firearms legally, the number of unregistered and illegally obtained firearms will only go up. Overall, this is the worst thing that could be done to currently licensed FFL's.
