Regarding bill SB1131

Chintimini Wildlife Center is a vital part of the rehab world here in Oregon. Each year, they help thousands of animals which otherwise would have nowhere to go. In today's society, there is an abundance of injured animals and not enough places that care to help them. That's why this bill is vital, not only for the future success of this location, but for the wellbeing of the animals in the surrounding area. This center is also key in wildlife education for Corvallis and surrounding areas. I would love to see this place be accessible to everyone, but in the current state of the paths and holes within them, this is not possible. It's been over 30 years that this place has provided care to animals in the area. I think it's about time they get the funding needed to hire more staff, improve enclosure, walk spaces, and improve the animal clinic.
