To Whomever it May Concern,

I am in Support! The tipping point has arrived or maybe passed, but there is still time to honor and in some cases, restore our environment. All beings on Earth, and those to be born, have the right to a healthy environment.

Here is an opportunity to create positive changes in current policies and practices that pollute the air and water and contribute to climate change. A constitutional protection will make it clear that our government must do its best to prevent environmental threats to the health and safety of Oregonians. This clarity of standards will support stability and confidence in regional markets and economies, and shield government policymaking from special interest influence.

Thank you
