I feel like the laws need to be more strict. My son was assaulted twice (that i know of) during his education. One the police were called by the school and the teachers aid was fired. I was not contacted until a week later. My son never said anything. Another time a teachers aid ripped him out of a doorway causing him to twist his arm. The teacher called me to let me know what happened. My son was not being dangerous, he was standing in a door way, the teachers aid had no consequences for his actions. After that my son had to go to school every day and see that teachers aid. It got really bad before I just pulled my son out of that school.

Thank you for your time!
