Granting physician status to FNP's and PA's but denying Doctors of Chiropractic that same title is discriminatory. Chiropractic education is a rigorous doctoral program that includes a significant amount of training — much more so than that of PA's and FNP's. Evaluating the curriculum of all these professions is crucial when determining decisions such as this. As a professor in a doctor of chiropractic program, I am very familiar with the rigor and comprehensiveness for DC's in their education. Please consider this position of opposition prior to finalizing this.
