Hello Senate.

I have been a hunter since I was 10 years old when my da helped me buy my first gun. I had to take a hunters safety course before I received the gun. I have been around guns both in the military and in my private life for almost 50 years. Though these bills you keep introducing seem to be great to those whom do not believe in guns or other types of outdoor shooting, it only weakens those who wish to keep their current rights.

Gun education is needed I agree, however, it is up to individuals to seek that out. Once done the individual should be able to handle themselves. More individuals are killed by vehicles than guns and I do not see you trying to take away those rights to drive or get age restrictions. The overreach of the continued legislation to restrict non criminals such as myself and other is really getting old. You are making decisions that will impact the state as a whole and could force a change in boundary lines to either incorporate into another state or create its own.

You are not changing the laws that do not affect criminals at all. Please quit protecting criminals and forcing out law abiding individuals. How many gang members have a concealed permit? How many criminals have used guns in crimes and have acquired them illegally? The chances of individuals going around the law increase with each new law you impose that restricts the rights of law-abiding individuals.

Thank you for your time

David Sayler