You keep trying to take away our second amendment right. We already have laws on the books that are adequate to stop irresponsible people from getting guns.

But you want to make it impossible to get a firearm. You want to make it impossible for a normal average law-abiding citizen to defend themselves against somebody that's got criminal intent. So you would have the criminal have large magazines but the law abiding citizen would basically have a revolver. So you were putting power in the hands of the criminals. How does that make sense? In addition we need more mental health help for those that really need it. That does not include The vast majority of gun owners. You're targeting the wrong population with your laws.
