

Submitter: David Klaus

On Behalf Of:

Committee: Senate Committee On Energy and Environment

Measure, Appointment or Topic: SB1187

Over 31,000 scientists, including Nobel laureates have signed a declaration rejecting the theory of man made climate change and yet, the Democrats in our legislature have introduced one carbon tax or scheme after another. There is no man made climate emergency and therefore no need for a Superfund. The earth has experienced warming and cooling trends for millennia, having much more to do with waning or increasing solar activity. Therefore, it's time to stop trying to solve an imaginary problem and tackle those that are real and pressing.