After suffering from secondary infertility, my husband and I needed to come out of pocket with loans for $40+k for fertility treatments- this resulted in one good embryo and a baby girl, that unfortunately died shortly after birth. When we healed enough emotionally we went back to the fertility clinic and ended up needing 3 more rounds of IVF to have our son. Fortunately, we were awarded a grant from Roaring Adventures that helped some with the cost, as well as a secondary insurance coving some cost.

This should be covered under ALL insurances as infertility is a medical condition.

I encourage a Yes on this bill
