

Submitter:

Judy Roth

On Behalf Of:

Committee:

Senate Committee On Rules

Measure, Appointment or Topic:

SJR28

Our world is degrading day by day. Fires, floods, volcanoes, earthquakes, tornadoes. Our waters have been polluted and some stand stagnant from drought times, invertebrates and insects are dying or migrating to safer more hospitable locations. Balance in the animal kingdom as well as our own political kingdom, are out of whack. Great calamities are already happening to people, families, communities, and tribes.

Our food needs to be grown sustainably, harmful chemicals and dyes need to be removed from our environment, much quicker development of greener energy should be encouraged, and we need to protect properties from in-discriminative development.

My children and grandchildren have this world to grow in, but I'm not at all sure what will be left for my great grandsons