I strongly support Oregon House Bill 210, a forward-thinking piece of legislation that strengthens the integrity and accessibility of our electoral process. By establishing in-person voting on Election Day as the standard method and requiring valid government-issued identification to vote or request a ballot, HB 210 takes critical steps to modernize Oregon's elections while ensuring they remain secure and trustworthy. This bill strikes a thoughtful balance, enhancing voter confidence by safeguarding against fraud and maintaining a clear, verifiable system. Oregonians deserve an electoral process that is both accessible and reliable, and HB 210 delivers on that promise. I urge lawmakers to pass this legislation to protect the sanctity of our democracy for future generations.
