In person voting will reduce participation in elections overall and particularly amongst homebound and institutionalized citizens. Oregon vote by mail has been a huge success. There is no well-intentioned argument for in person voting. It's a clear attempt to disenfranchise as many voters as possible. Disenfranchisement is part of the Project 2025 playbook and should be rejected AT ALL COSTS. If they had their way only free, property owning, white men who would have a vote. They will tell everyone that is untrue but look at what Trump said about Project 2025 and the current reality. Here we are, in Oregon, debating voting access. This is BS and should be treated as such.
