SB210

The only outcome and goal of this is making it harder for everyone to vote regardless of individual politics. Bad politicians rely on voter apathy and making voting more difficult rather than actually serving their constituents. This is obviously a regressive measure that should not even be considered, and those that brought it forth should be ashamed of themselves.

Until election days are holidays and voting stations are more plentiful this is obviously intended to reduce the ability for everyone to vote, especially in more populated areas.
