SB210

Oregon's Mail-In voting and Driver Registration laws are innovative and bring the social requirements of our political system back to the body of people that should be making the decisions. Oregon has a strong record of only registering and allowing legal voters. There is no reason to require voters to 'vote in person' or show federally accepted identification. Having the ability to not disrupt my normal life and leisurely peruse the voters pamphlet to make my decisions is very important. I do remember the days of going to the local Grange to vote- after work hours, children's in arm, delaying dinner and bedtimes to make these important decisions. I am very contented with how the State of Oregon currently runs it's elections and strongly recommend not returning to ancient times.
