Voting by mail is an Oregon institution that I've enjoyed since moving to this fine state almost exactly twenty years ago. Having also lived in other parts of the country I know personally how challenging it can be to access the polls in election season when one also works full-time, or has other serious obligations. I believe that voting by mail should be the standard practice nation-wide, and eliminating the practice is tantamount to voter suppression. Please do not acquiesce to this criminal administration's further attempts to separate the American populace from its democratic voice.
