As a hard working Oregonian with a full time job and the experience of living in a state that has had mandatory in-person voting, I'm in opposition. Election days are not considered holidays so taking the time to vote in person makes it less accessible for much more people. I've been able to vote comfortably and take my time to research each candidate because of mail-in voting. Removing this option looks to be an obvious ploy to make voting less accessible and I'll never agree to that.
