

Submitter:

Margie Hanrahan

On Behalf Of:

Committee:

Senate Committee On Judiciary

Measure, Appointment or Topic:

SB243

I'm 81 years old and it's a very different world with guns than when I grew up. No kids were afraid of gun attacks in their school, especially by other kids. Even my children's generation was mostly free of this scourge. Now my grandson saw a student shot in front of his high school. We must make it more difficult for immature young adults to acquire war weapons and improve our methods of certifying for purchase. Gun violence is at an epidemic level in this country.