I am opposed to changing the Oregon mail-in voting system. It has worked well for many years. It is cheaper for the State to run than in-person voting, so it saves tax dollars. It is more convenient for voters. Poll place voting can raise barriers for people who work, people who have disabilities or medical conditions, and others who cannot easily take time off and go in person to a polling place. Our mail voting system results in more people voting. Finally, and for me best of all, it allows me to study my ballot and to research issues and candidates, so my vote is better informed. Cheaper, more, better. It's hard to beat that combo. Leave it alone.
