When I moved to Oregon in 2016, I thought I would not like Vote by Mail. I had previously worked in a Tennessee election office which was well run and fair. To my surprise, I loved - and still do - vote by mail. I get to vote when I want. I get to vote at my kitchen table. I can discuss issues with my friends and family, and can research information that no one is sure about. And then I walk my ballot to the library and return it, at my convenience. This is a fantastic system, don't mess with it.
