Voting by mail is more convenient for everyone concerned. It leaves a paper trail so that if votes need to be recounted, the data is available. It is less costly than manning in-person polling stations.

One year I was hospitalized on Election Day. It was for a Presidential Election, and I was dismayed. If I had had a mail-in ballot, I could have voted no matter what the emergency.

Since 1996 I have voted by mail; it is the easiest and most convenient way to vote. That it provides a paper trail is important for transparency. And it saves money!
