Ridiculous, anti democratic proposal. Oregon's mail-in voting system is fantastic, and well loved by the vast majority of people. There is absolutely negligible fraud, and switching to in-person voting on day-of elections only puts a strain on voters, causing massive amounts of traffic, hassle, and missed work for individuals, leading to lower voter turnout and a less democratic process. No Oregonian who actually cares about democracy and the people of this fine state would support this undemocratic added hassle to voters.
