The current vote by mail system is rife for fraud, whether it be people filing out a ballot for another person and having them sign it or through DMV mailing ballots to non-citizens or people who should have been removed from the voter rolls. Combine this with a system that is not transparent, using excuses such as the need to protect one's identity in case they wrote their name on the ballot. Those ballots should actually be rejected instead of counted based on the form instructions. Most other countries do not allow VBM for similar reasons and to think our current process is secure is a fantasy.
