As a mail carrier for over 9 years I have participated in our state's voting by mail system for several elections. I can tell you that many of my postal customers that have severe disabilities where their mobility is limited and it is difficult for them to leave the house can still have their voice heard. Not to mention during the Covid pandemic where people were rightly concerned about going out to a crowded public place, mail in voting allowed them to still participate in our political process. Mail in voting empowers people's voices to be heard, getting rid of mail in voting is voter suppression and taking the voices away from our most vulnerable citizens.
