To all Parties

It is time to end the bull shit and get to work prevention is cheaper then treatment.

We need to invest in our future, and it is terrible enough that Johnny can not read or write, now we are going to allow our children to be the future addicts of tomorrow.

How ludicrous it is to see us spend money on a new track, football, and baseball field but not on our children. What hurts the most is that we do not put our money into our children and then ask ourselves where we went wrong.

I hate to say this, we live in a racist society If were only lily white children, we would not have this talk, but now it has hit the suburbs, and we care. Once again, prevention is cheaper than treatment. I know I have 50 years in the field of addiction, right smack in the middle of the civil rights movement.
