SB210

The United States of America is a democratic nation and in order to maintain a democracy the citizens of a nation must and should be allowed to vote. Since Election Day is not a national holiday, mail-in ballots allow all those who are eligible to vote without having to take the day off. Not everyone has the luxury of paid time off nor do they have the luxury of taking a day off work due to various reasons. Mail in ballots assure equity and that all voices are heard and acknowledged through our democratic process.
