I live in outskirts of the city and have never thought voted by mail was a honest way to vote to many possibilities something to go wrong. But if you have to be there in person and show I'd all doubt is removed even if it doesn't go my way. at least I know it was fair. In today's handling of the voting nobody is sure who cheated and where it happened in the process so let's go back to vote in person show ID and take away the controversy
