As a concerned citizen, I strongly support requiring voter ID and eliminating mail-in ballots. Voter ID ensures that every vote cast is legitimate, protecting the integrity of our elections. It's a simple, common-sense measure—most people already use ID for everyday tasks like banking or travel, so why not for something as critical as voting? Meanwhile, mailing ballots opens the door to fraud, delays, and errors. I've seen reports of lost ballots, duplicated votes, and even ballots sent to outdated addresses. In-person voting with ID is secure, efficient, and keeps our democracy trustworthy. Let's prioritize election integrity over convenience.
