The ability to vote by mail is part of why many of our younger voters even make it to the polls. When I've lived in states with in-person only voting, the amount of time it takes to vote - standing in line, hoping your signature on the ballot matches the one on your ID close enough for them to even count it, hoping the person looking at your ID doesn't decide it's invalid for some reason or another (I didn't have my glasses on once and had to go home and get them just to prove I was me). It is a deterrent in addition to just not feasible for all people depending on where they live and what their job or home situation is!

Please, protect our right to vote by mail. At the very least allow it as an equally accessible and viable option as any kind of in-person voting.
