I lived in Texas for 63 years. I voted 'on the day of the election' and it required time off from work and standing in a very long line. Then we had to creep through the building where they elections were set up and wait for elderly people to slowly look us up in the records and check us off. Then we could go to a 'stand' and vote with pencils. It was antiquated and unfair to people who could not get off work to vote.

It was like a new world to come here and discover the Oregon way to vote. Finally I had more time to study the issues and think about my vote (the voters' manual is a huge help too).

I'm not sure why people want to change this but I fear that there are nefarious reasons. My vote is to NOT change what works fine.
