I support the end of vote by mail. There are several reasons one of them is I do not trust the system. As it stands, we knew we had undocumented Citizens on our Voter Rolls and chose to leave them on there till after the election. There are also reports of people receiving ballots for people that are dead or moved out of state and they do not clean up our Voter Rolls. We have no idea who's filling these out and being in person to vote will help build trust in the system. Also with vote by mail, it takes over a week to count them and that shouldn't be. It should be no more than two days after the election. Oregon only has about 2 million people vote. Anyhow, I can't think of any good purpose for Mail in voting other than convenience.

On a sidenote, I know that you were uncomfortable with people not believing the results, which is why you spent that money spying on people to see if they were complaining about the voting system here in Oregon. You can save your money now And not worry about people spreading disinformation.
