Unless we are going to have the federal government pickup the tab in providing voting sites across the state, this will only be a useless waste of money and time for all involved. Our voting system is safe and equitable as is. We should not spend time and money placating those with unfounded fears of compromised elections. I've voted in a state that required in person elections, and while working part-time it was still difficult to make it to the polls. Even if it were a holiday, not all employers would give the time off. This does a disservice to all involved.
