SB210

As a young, working mother in the 90's I hustled to get through work, pick up my child, and get to the polls. On the best of days it was a struggle but I got there because I worked in the neighborhood. Many of my friends did their best but depending on where they worked, what every child's s schedule was that day, and a myriad of other things going on, many missed the opportunity to vote. Voting by mail was a game changer for all. It has simplified the process so much almost guaranteeing that everyone can participate in this most important right and privilege. It makes voting accessible to all.
