

Submitter:

Paul Fruin

On Behalf Of:

Committee:

Senate Committee On Rules

Measure, Appointment or Topic:

SB210

As a citizen who does a lot of canvassing in neighborhoods, I am very concerned about the number of citizens I encounter who indicate that they will no longer vote because they don't trust our voting system. This is not good for a democratic republic. Voting is an important responsibility for a person living in a republican form of government and it is more imperative that we make our voting system trustworthy than making it easy. Returning to in person, one day voting, in precincts with voter identification will ensure that trust.