I am a Voter residing in Portland and I really appreciate having the option to vote by mail. I like having the time to research and read up on what I am voting for and having the option to vote without worrying about time constraints and access to in person voting or having to deal with crowd and so on.

Forcing in person voting is going to bar many people have accessibility issues from voting. People may be sick, unable to take off work, does not own a vehicle and so on.

This makes the voting process less fair because less people will have access to voting and less people's votes will be represented. Making voting harder is not democratic but manipulative.
