I oppose abolishing vote by mail. I can spend much more time with my ballot researching if I can do it over time, filling in choices one at a time. Judges in particular require a lot of research. It's too difficult to take all of my notes to a polling place. I don't have a car any longer, and don't want to stand in long lines, which seems to be a tactic for discouraging voting. If people prefer to go to a polling place, fine. I don't, and shouldn't be forced to.
