SB210

Oregon's vote-by-mail system has served our state well since being implemented. It takes away some of the barriers people may face when trying to vote in person, setting the stage for higher voter turnout. There have been very few problems with fraud or abuse of ot.

We've watched as other states struggle to provide enough polling stations to handle the volume of in-person voters on election days.

We've also watched as bad-faith actors have attempted (and succeeded) in making it more difficult for people to vote. This measure is an example of those bad-faith actors trying to implement what is ultimately voter suppression under the pretense of protecting elections in Oregon.

A vote for this measure is a vote to take away the voices of Oregon voters.
