Mail in voting is incredibly convenient and is the best way to ensure equitable access to voting. We need to keep this practice in place. If there are concerns about security, we should consider how best to address them instead of removing the practice altogether.

Personally, I travel for work very frequently, almost every week. Voting day is not a holiday I can take off. Without mail in voting, I will need to apply for an absentee ballot anyway, and my wife will be stuck dragging our kids to the polling station so she can cast her ballot. In this modern era of democracy, in person voting is wildly unnecessary.
