This is a terrible idea! If it ain't broke, don't fix it. I believe this is another way to replace legally effective convenience of a established ritual with yet another inconvenient deterrent/obstacle in performing one's right as an American to voice their crucial vote. To put it simply, if anything, this will discourage--not encourage--common citizens from casting their votes.

There exists no sound evidence I am aware of, that throughout Oregon, voting fraud is increased by mail in voting. On the contrary, it seems to significantly increase ballots completed, received & verified. Perhaps this is why it is being proposed by a Republican representative.
