Oregon's elections are secure and have a high turnout rate thanks to mail-in voting. I am lucky as an Oregonian to have access to this system, one I consider the envy of our country. In-person voting would be a massive inconvenience and would do little to curb alleged fraud considering that fraud does not exist. Let's continue to work for the enfranchisement of Oregonians and lean into what makes this state a great place to live by keeping mail-in voting as Oregon's standard.
