Mail in voting has been the standard since I was able to vote in my first presidential election in 2000. It is very safe and secure, not to mention convenient. The only reason that the Republicans are calling for it to end is that is the only way they have a chance of winning. We have one of the highest voter turnouts in the country because of mail in voting. When less people vote, the Republicans have a better chance of winning. In this day and age, there is absolutely no reason that we would need to vote in person when the method we have been using for the last 24 years is secure, safe, convenient, and causes a record turnout in every election. Repealing it is just a ploy by Republicans to steal elections.
