

In person single day voting is an unattainable standard for democracy. The cost is astronomical and the state cannot support hosting a fair election with the capacity that this practice would require.