The Heritage Foundation openly tracks voter fraud cases over decades at the local, state, and federal level. The total number of cases is essentially zero relative to the total number of votes cast in that time. If it weren't, we'd be told to look at it every single day by Daddy Trump's echo chamber lemmings.

We have been voting by mail since the Civil War era. Anyone supporting this in our government should grow a spine, a brain, and a willingness to find another job.

Focus on real issues. Voter fraud is accounted for. I couldn't oppose anything more strongly than this.
