I have enjoyed Oregon's mail in voting system for the entirety of my adult life. The right to vote is a cornerstone part of what it means to be an American. Turning voting from something you can do at your kitchen table at your own convenience with research in hand into a chore you have to do is just an unnecessary barrier to entry. For many people with little time off or with accessibility issues, this will impact their ability to have their voice heard. I'm strongly urging our legislature to protect Oregonian's right to vote by mail.
