SB210

This would disenfranchise those without easy access to transportation. This would disenfranchise disabled individuals in hospitals and skilled nursing facilities. This would disenfranchise those who are traveling for work. This would decrease voter participation. This would exponentially increase financial cost of elections due to the need to install polling places, hire polling staff, and security. It would cause traffic congestion in polling locations. It would increase the risk of disruption and disputes in polling locations due to the volatility of the current political climate. It will cost employees and businesses financially due to the time off needed for voting. This will potentially disrupt emergency services as staff would not be able to work to exercise their voting rights.
