Mail in voting is safe and secure. Taking this system away limits the amount of folks who can go in person to vote. The extremely notable and recent global pandemic is a blatant example of why we need mail in voting. It limits the exposure to viruses, by limiting human contact. We saw an huge boom in mail in voting during the pandemic because people still had choice and chose to continue to fulfill their duty to vote, by taking advantage of mail in. Elderly folks and disabled folks are also the ones who need mail in voting, plain and simple accessibility is what needs to be considered here - people who NEED the option to vote from the comfort of their own home. There is absolutely no reason to take mail in voting away, it's only taking away another right.
