SB210

Oregon's early adoption of vote-by-mail is a point of great pride among many Oregonians, including myself and the majority of people I know. I oppose this measure which would jeopardize the fairness of our great state's elections and overcomplicate things for voters who lack easy access to in-person voting on the day of an election. Our consistent extremely high voter turnout compared with the country as a whole cannot be wrong. Other states should be following our example; we should not be following theirs.
